

NKEH BRANON

On one blessed day of mind, something came my way. Infact something great. A strong and powerful group called UBUNTU. But little did I know how wonderful it was until I began full participation as a member. We had a training session for free that changed my way of seeing things, communication and even my way of interacting with everyone. From that day, I became an ambassador of peace. A Whatsapp forum was created which was equally pleased me because it united me great men which were our leaders and many other members from different towns making distance not a barrier for us and together as one we formed a group of peace promoters, a team and a family.

This group facilitated communication between us and enabled us have lots of competitive exercises in which the best were rewarded likewise enabled us share our ideas and emotional feelings. Ubuntu had indeed supported me with a continuous moral, spiritual and most especially financial assistance. I thanked God for Ubuntu because with Ubuntu my family had extended in no time. I prayed for its continuity and eventual growth. Ubuntu however was, is and will forever remain a place to be.
